You are not alone

No matter what you're going through, we'll help you get through it.

Each year, more than 500,000 people turn to us for help when they need it most.

If you or someone you know wants to discuss any mental health, substance use, or emotional concern—or needs assistance with essential needs like food or housing—we can help.

How it works

Reach out: a real, caring person will answer immediately to provide free, confidential support. Many lines are available 24/7/365.

Let us understand: we'll ask you a few questions to understand your situation better, and without judgment. What you share is confidential. Our team of staff and volunteers are here to listen and help.

We'll make a plan together: we're here to listen, understand, connect to resources, and support you however you need it.

There is no wrong reason to call.

How you can help

Volunteer

Volunteers at Crisis Connections are of every age and background. And they truly make a difference in the lives of thousands of people every day. With some training (provided by us), you can work directly with callers on one of our helplines—either on the Crisis Line or peer-to-peer support for adults through Warm Line or for youth through Teen Link. Or help with spreading awareness and our many community outreach events. Office and general support roles are also available.

Donate

Whether a one-time gift, a monthly commitment, or a contribution through your workplace, every donation helps ensure that no one in our community has to face crisis alone.

Share and Advocate

We know that people everywhere need support. And we rely on empathetic humans to get the word out about our services. Tell your family, tell your friends, tell everyone.

Who we are

Since 1964, Crisis Connections has been a trusted nonprofit serving Seattle, King County, and Washington State. Our mission is to foster resilience and well-being for all by connecting people to accessible and compassionate support. Besides our helplines, we support survivors of suicide, provide community outreach, and offer youth suicide prevention education. Our phone lines support more than 150 languages. This is all possible thanks to 300 staff, 500 volunteers, dozens of community partners, and thousands of donors and advocates.
